You are invited to the start of something exciting in Powys...

SPICE is a UK-wide social enterprise that helps organisations to work collaboratively in order to put people at the heart of the services they offer. SPICE use Time Credits, which are a fantastic tool for encouraging people to participate and engage with the way that services are run. Their approach provides a system that brings organisations together to work together, exchange skills and share resources.

“ Our award-winning projects have a track record of changing cultures. SPICE works across dozens of local authorities, registered social landlords, health trusts and communities. We believe that everybody has something to give to make a difference to the way they receive their services. We support organisations to set up the principles, systems and measurements by which Co-Production can flourish – always focussed on genuine, lasting change and how progress will be demonstrated.”

We are hoping that organisations across Powys will be inspired to start linking-up in order to support stronger, more resilient communities.
